It is of great importance that the proposed plan for Portland harbor Superfund site have an extended amount of time for all stakeholders to be able to respond. People on or below the poverty level are stakeholders also and need more time to contribute. The plan as it stands now is an insult to all Portlanders in its bowing to corporate pressure to "keep the cost down".

The public was not asked to comment when these industries decided to pollute.

Now is the time to remedy that flaw.
